5 Ways to Revamp Your Classroom This Summer

Upgrade the tech

Take stock of your classroom technology – are the classroom headphones frayed and worn? Is the projector on its last legs? Whatever it is, it's time to upgrade! When classroom tech runs smoothly, so does learning.

Rearrange the furniture

Rearranging furniture is one of the easiest ways to make your space feel new. Consider seating arrangements that promote student engagement – like clusters of four or the half-circle.

Declutter

Too much classroom clutter can increase students' stress and cause poor performance, research shows. Remove items that no longer serve a purpose and organize what you do need in durable classroom storage.

Add new color

Colors impact mood in big ways. For example, reds boost excitement while blues amplify calm. Adding color – whether it's on a wall or in a new classroom rug – is an affordable way to make a dramatic change.

Incorporate plants

Plants freshen the air by absorbing pollutants, plus, research has shown that plants in the classroom can increase students' mental well-being.
